Figma basics

Meet Figma, in 3 minutes

This space is for learning the basics of Figma, and to practice on some sample designs.

Check out the examples below.

They're for you to hack up, replicate, and make your own.

Central California — The person who grew these was located in Central California and, er, hopefully very well-compensated.

WHAT WE BELIEVE

We believe in produce. Tasty produce. Produce like:

Apples. Oranges. Limes. Lemons. Guavas. Carrots. Cucumbers. Jicamas. Cauliflowers. Brussels sprouts. Shallots. Japanese eggplants. Asparagus. Artichokes—Jerusalem artichokes, too. Radishes. Broccoli. Baby broccoli. Broccolini. Bok choy. Scallions. Ginger. Cherries. Raspberries. Cilantro. Parsley. Dill.

What are we forgetting?

Oh! Onions. Yams. Avocados. Lettuce. Arugula (to some, “rocket”). Persian cucumbers, in addition to aforementioned “normal” cucumbers. Artichokes. Zucchinis. Pumpkins. Squash (what some cultures call pumpkins). Sweet potatoes and potato-potatoes. Jackfruit. Monk fruit. Fruit of the Loom. Fruits of our labor (this website). Sorrel. Pineapple. Mango. Gooseberries. Blackberries. Tomatoes. Heirloom tomatoes. Beets. Chives. Corn. Endive. Escarole, which, we swear, we're vendors of organic produce, but if you asked us to describe what escaroles are...
